The Daily Union Vedette.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 5 1866

Utah and the Mormons.

From an address delivered at Pontiac, Michigan, Tuesday evening, August 14, by Hon. Thomas J. Drake, Associate Justice of the Territory of Utah, as reported in the Detroit Advertiser and Tribune, we quote:

"On the 9th day of September, 1850, Congress passed an act establishing a territorial government for Utah. It constituted a part of the celebrated 'Omnibus bill' of that year, under the weight of which the nation has groaned and writhed ever since, and in all probability will continue to do so for some time to come. Previous, however, to to the passing of that act by Congress, the few who had gathered there, notorious only for the multitude and magnitude of their crimes, undertook to establish a State government. On the 18th of March, 1849, a constitution for the State of Deseret was formed and reported by a committee of ten to a convention.

"The committee appear to have had most extended views of State sovereignty, and consequently embraced a large tract of country within the State boundaries, reaching from the summit of the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific ocean, extending through more than 10° of longitude and latitude, and embracing a great portion of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oregon, Idaho, Dacotah, and all of Nevada and Utah. The thirst for territory was equaled only by the insolence and audacity of the committee. They charged the General Government with delinquency in not furnishing them with a form of government, and set it forth as a preamble for establishing the free and independent State of Deseret. The constitution was submitted to the people, and adopted without a dissenting vote. In January, 1850, the Legislature created by this constitution proceeded to pass laws and ordinances, and granted to Brigham Young, Ezra T. Benson, and George A. Smith all, or nearly all, the arable land with the timber and water privileges, in the valley; and also the remarkable act incorporating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Thus at an early day, when there were scarcely inhabitants enough for a well regulated township, the soil was given away without any authority, and the people were hemmed in by privileges granted to favorites, and cursed by the traps and snares of a rotten priesthood."

The President's Mexican Proclamation.

Whereas a war is existing in the Republic of Mexico, aggravated by foreign military intervention:

And whereas the United States, in accordance with their settled habits and policy, are a neutral Power in regard to the war which thus afflicts the Republic of Mexico;

And whereas it has become known that one of the belligerents in the said war, namely, the Prince Maximilian, who asserts himself to be Emperor in Mexico; has issued a decree in regard to the Port of Matamoras, and other Mexican Ports which are in the occupation and possession of another of the said belligerents, namely, the United States of Mexico, which decree is in the following words:

"The port of Matamoras and all those of the Northern frontier which have withdrawn from their obedience to the Government are closed to foreign and coasting traffic during such time as the empire of the law shall not be therein reinstated."

"ART. 2nd. Merchandise proceeding from the said ports, on arriving at any other where the exercise of the Empire is collected, shall pay the duties on importation, introduction and consumption; and on satisfactory proof of contravention shall be irremissibly confiscated. Our Minister of the Treasury is charged withe the punctual execution of this decree."

"Given at Mexico; the 9th of July, 1866.

And whereas the decree thus recited, by declaring a belligurent blockade unsupported by competent military or naval force, is in violation of the neutral rights of the United States, as defined by the law of nations, as well as of the treaties existing between the United States of America and the aforesaid United States of Mexico:

Now, therefore, I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do hereby proclaim and declare, that the aforesaid decree is held, and will be held, by the United States to be absolutely null and void, as against the Government and citizens of the United States; and that any attempt which shall be made to enforce the same against the Government or the citizens of the United States will be disallowed.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington the seventeenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety-first.

SEAL.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

By the President:

WILLIAM H. SEWARD,
Secretary of State.

Cleveland, Sept. 3.

The President arrived at 8½ o'clock this evening, having had a pleasant trip from Buffalo, with receptions and speeches all the way.

The President's voice grows hoarser and hoarser, and the fatigues of the trip are evidently wearing upon the entire party: It is also noticeable that the further west the President goes the more coldly he and Seward are received and the more cheers are bestowed on Grant and Farragut.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.

The Convention was inaugurated with great eclat, according to the programme of the Union League and other political clubs.

The procession formed in Independence Square, headed by the Union League, 500 strong. The National Union Club escorted the Southern delegates, the organization called "Boys in Blue" escorted the Northern delegation, with the Republican Invincible Club, firemen and citizens in the rear. Fred. Douglass walked with Theodore Tilton, and received great applause.

The streets were decorated with flags and mottoes and crowded with people.

The procession moved down Walnut street to 3d, up 3d to Chestnut, up Chestnut to Broad.

The formal welcome of the Southern delegates was pronounced by Charles Gibbons, in front of the Union League House.

The Southern delegates entered the National Guards' Hall at 1 p. m., and Stokes, of Tennessee, read the call.

Thomas J. Durant, of Louisiana, was made temporary Chairman, and a Committee on Credentials was appointed, consisting of James A. Bell, of Texas, Gen. Harris H. Thomas, Tenn., Wm. R. Crane, La., Geo. K. Gilmer, Va., Gen. R. S. Northrop, West Va., G. W. Shaw, Ga., D. H Bingham, Ala., R. C. Griffith, Ky., J. H. Fold, Miss., Gen. Rogers, Ark., H. K. Furnas, N. C., Gen. Dennison, Md., John Adams, Del., C. L. Robinson, Fla., and D. C. Forney, Dist. Columbia.

The committee on permanent organization was also appointed, with A. J Fletcher, of Tenn., as Chairman, after which the Convention adjourned till to-morrow.

The reception of the proceedings in front of the Union League House called out at least ten thousand people.

Mr. Gibbons greeted the delegates from the South as fellow loyalists, fellow citizens and brethren. He said:

There was no loyal blood on their hands, and their souls were free from the guilt of treason. They had held fast to their integrity, though their homes had been desolated, their pleasant places laid waste, and themselves and their wives and children driven into exile. The sympathy which men of the North felt for them at that time was flashed from the million of Northern bayonets and pronounced by the mouths of Northern cannon. He proclaimed it as the honest sentiment of the North that when the South returned to her duty she must come in new robes—with new covenants for liberty, equality and justice—led by her own loyal Unionists, who are free from the taint of treason. What hope had they in the future, or what security, if unpunished and impudent traitors were to be reinstated by the arbitrary will of one man, under a Constitution they had defiled and foresworn? The answer was already written in the blood of the murdered loyalists of New Orleans.

The men of the South were here on the high and solemn mission of reëstablishing the Union on the broad and sure foundation of equal and exact justice to all men. (Cheers.) It could stand on no othe. They could not be unmindful of all the lessons of the past as to be led by vagrant politicians into another compromise with crime, instead of lifting up from degradation those who had been its victims.

The following dispatch was then announced:

San Francisco, Sept. 1.

To Hon. A. J. Hamilton, of Texas:—The Pacific States send cordial congratulations to your Convention. May your deliberations promote the only wise plan of reconstruction—that proposed by Congress. (Signed)

F. F. Low, Gov. of California.
H. G. Blasdel, Gov. of Nevada,
A. C. Gibbs, Gov. of Oregon,
Geo. L. Woods, Gov. elect of Oregon.

Hamilton, of Texas, then replied to Gibbons:

They had hoped after the triumph of the national arms that those who had suffered long would have some indemnity for loss or at least security for the future. They had hoped to be permitted to return peacefully to their habitations and renew their associations with the friends from whom they had so long been seperated, but the experience of the last twelve months had taught them in bitterness of heart that the spirit which animated the rebels was as rampant to-day as when the rebels first drew the sword. (Voices—"That's so!")

Seeing this, and realizing that so far from being reunited to their homes they were reunited to the same element which sought their destruction and the destruction of the Government, some of them who happened to be at the National Capital deemed the time propitious to call the Unionists of the South together. As to their own condition and that of the country, they believed they saw danger not only to themselves but a cloud, though not bigger than a man's hand, on the verge of the horizon, which might ultimately spread over the entire country. They therefore determined to make the call. They invoked the assistance and counsel of all their brethren everywhere throughout the United States. They asked the loyal delegations that come here to give them the hand of welcome, to help them renew their faith to the Government in a purer spirit than before and to prove to all—Presidents and Cabinets and Councils—that the people North and South who were loyal to the Government would be satisfied with nothing less than actual security and individual equality to all men under the Constitution. (Cheers.)

A heavy rain to-night prevented mass meetings, but a large crowd in the National Guards' Hall was addressed by Horace Maynard and other eloquent Southerners.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.

Pursuant to a call issued from Washington the following members of the Republican National Committee attended to-day:

Gov. Marcus L. Ward of New Jersey, Sam. A. Purviance of Pa., N. B. Smithers of Delaware, H. W. Hoffman of Maryland, Senator Jos. S. Fowler of Tenn., J. D. Defrees of Ind., D. C. Cook of Ills., B. Geddings of Michigan, S. J. Judd of Wis., S. B. Tubbs of Iowa, F. Simpson of Minn., A. W. Campbell of W. Va., H. H. Starkweather of Conn., B. R. Cowan of Ohio, A. B. Gardner of Vt. The Committee temporarily organized with Senator Fowler as Chairman, and unanimously adopted a resolution declaring H. J. Raymond, of New York, and Geo. B. Senter, of Ohio, no longer members of the Committee, and N. D. Sperry, of Conn., no longer its Secretary for their abandonment of the principles of the party and their amiliation with its enemies. Gov. Ward was then chosen permanent Chairman, vice Raymond.

New York, Sept. 3.

Under the Raymond call the following members of the Republican National Committee attended at the Astor House to day:

H. J. Raymond of N. Y., Wm. Claffin of Mass., Thomas G. Turner of R. I., J. B. Clarke of N. H., C. Bullitt of La., and N. D. Sperry, Secretary.

Claffin suggested the impropriety of taking action in the absence of so many members.

Mr. Sperry said if the session was illegal on account of the want of a quorum all previous ones were illegal for the same reason. At the last meeting there were only 12 members present.

Raymond said he believed it would be best to adjourn to a fixed day. Sperry approved this and Raymond said he would retain in custody the papers until relieved of his position.

Some of the members would probably meet at Philadelphia and take some action. It was finally agreed to adjourn to a day to be fixed by the Executive Committee.

Hannibal Hamlin, collector of the port of Boston, tenders his resignation to President in a letter, dated August 27th, which says:

I do not fail to observe the movements and efforts which have been and are now being made to organize a party consisting of those engaged in the late rebellion and their allies, who sought to cripple and embarrass the Government. These classes of persons with small fractions of others, constitute the party. It proposes to overthrow the Union Republican party, and to restore to power, without guarantee for the future, men who have been disloyal, those who sought to destroy the Government. I gave you all the influence I possessed to uphold the Republican party during the war, without aid of which the Government would have been distroyed and the rebellion a success. With such a party as inaugurated I have no sympathy, and I therefore tender my resignation, to take effect from the time a successor will be appointed and qualified.

CHECKMATED HIM.—The Liverpoo correspondent of the Mobile Advertiser tells the following good 'un:

While recounting incidents of "the war," I may as well tell you how M. Charles de Cothschild checkmated the Prussian General Manteuffel, when the Prussian army occupied Frankfort, and the bankers of that city were ordered to raise an immense sum for the use of the invading army. The celebrated capitalist waited on Gen. de Manteuffel, and said: "We shall not pay. Pillage our cellars, if you like, but you will not find there your twenty-five millions of florins. And, if you do so, I give you my word that I will cause all the signatures that I hold of the Prussian bankers to be protested, so that all your banks shall fail." The General had some idea of having M. de Rothschild arrested, but did not carry out that noble design.

TO ADVERTISERS.—The VEDETTE is the pioneer daily newspaper of Utah. It will cost one million of dollars. Among the stockholders are Commodore Vanderbilt and John Davidson. The former subscribes for $200,000 worth of stock and the latter $100,000. To punish the Lelands and other hotel keepers the rates for board are to be two dollars a day, instead of five dollars, which is the present price.

A Portland paper illustrates the wholesale thieving there on the night of the fire as follows: "One who had been slumbering peacefully in his grave in the eastern cemetery, awoke, and walking forth inquired if 'the day of judgment day had come?' On being told that it was only Portland burning, he remarked that he would go back to his repose. On reaching his grave he found that in his absence somebody had stolen his coffin!"

THE following are given as the appropriations for the chief branches of the Government service made at the last session of Congress: Legislative, executive and judicial service, $25,412,550; civil and miscellaneous service, $5,729,034; collecting revenue from customs, $4,200,000; diplomatic service, $1,405,496; Indian service, $3,917,557; naval service, $18,904,667; military service, $44,237,000; pensions, $15,440,000; rewards for capture of assassins, $105,000; various acts for deficiency, $265,000; total, $122,005,307. This does not include the amounts necessary to pay the bounties under the recent bounty law, for which no amount is given.

The correspondent of the Leavenworth Times, writing from New Fort Reno, under date of July 26th, says:

The Indians are on the war path from this point up, and swear we shall not travel this new road, and it looks as though they meant business, for they have but four days ago captured and massacred French Pete and his party but three miles from this Fort, and but three days ago come down on the garrison here and drove off eighty head of stock.

And now a little advice. Let no freighters or emigrants attempt the passage of this road without being at least an hundred strong, and very well armed, and let no Indian, at any point on the old or new road, come into their camps, and if they do, see that they never get out. This is talk, and well meant, and if not followed strictly the cost will fall upon those who will not be advised. That treaties have been made with the Indians this year is a lie, black and damnable too, but that some $70,000 worth of goods and presents were given the squaws and papooses is a truth if we are to believe our Commissioners.

☞ In a short time it is our intention to commence the publication of a series of articles in the columns of the "Radiator" giving a complete history of Montana, Utah and Idaho, from their earliest infancy, including a minute detail of the proceedings of the Vigilance Committee of Montana.

In doing this no little pains will be taken to insure accuracy and arrive at the truth; and the author hopes that it will be such a one as will redound to his honor, and that he may be able to refer with pride.
